

Cancer and a God of Love (Sermons by Rev Dr Edmund Jones Book 1)

Cancer and a God of Love by Rev Dr Edmund Jones Basic to all our fears - our fear of failure or of the dark, of illness or insanity, of life today or death tomorrow is the fear of being alone and lost. A child helpless again before forces over which we have no control. How will we cope if we are sent away to die among strangers or if in our extremity we are embarrassed? How will we fare if treatment is thought to be more important than dignity or there is no end to the pain? What if we are offered the poorest medical care at the time when our need is greatest? The answer of the New Testament is that the true antidote to fear is love for perfect love casts out fear (1 John 4.18). The first and greatest need of a patient is to feel that he is not a patient, but a person who even in illness and weakness is altogether loved and valued. We find the Biblical writers wrestling with the question which troubles us all. And what they say is what religious people still say. Human calamity does indeed abound but God controls it all and has a hidden purpose in suffering. Lord, hold on to me when I can no longer hold on to you.
