

Madly In Love Forever: A Guide to True and Lasting Love

Diane and Lewis Denbaum offer you a wealth of insights and no-nonsense hands-on practices that will show you how to put an end to the loneliness and frustration of unsuccessful relationships. No matter your status--single, dating, married, divorced, or married again--being happier is only a step away. They help you find clarity where there has been confusion and ease where there has been struggle. Diane and Lewis both spent years working to recover from the devastation and pain of failed marriages and the trauma of divorcing with children. They studied the field of human relationships, took dozens of seminars, and gained both wisdom and practical training from top relationship experts, as well as great spiritual teachers. Their hard work paid off and one happy day they attracted each other. Since then, they have learned to love again in a way that they had previously only dreamed of and yearned for. Together they share the knowledge they have gained and the tools that have worked for them.
