

The Municipalization of Play and Recreation: The Beginnings of a New Institution (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Municipalization of Play and Recreation: The Beginnings of a New Institution My work as superintendent of city schools forced me into this problem. The recreational life of small cities and towns is so unsatisfactory, so wasteful, and so morally dangerous, that I was led to attempt to understand it. My masters thesis, The Motion Picture Show with Special Reference to its Effects on Morals and Education, increased my interest in the human struggle for wholesome and developmental exercise of fundamental instincts. This little book is an attempt to show one tendency in this struggle. The manuscript of this book was accepted, in 1917, in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Nebraska. It is published as written at that time with a few minor changes and additions. Some new matter has been introduced in chapters ii, iii, and iv. However, no attempt has been made to follow the problem through and after the World War. Social conditions were normal in 1917. Ideas and facts have been taken freely from others. Credit in no case has been purposely omitted. The writer here expresses his deep obligation to many city officials, and other persons, who have so kindly answered questions, and sent helpful material. To Dr. G.W. A. Luckey for his wise direction, and to my wife for her patient and skillful assistance in the preparation of the manuscript, I am especially indebted.
