

Juice Squeezed:: Lessons Learned from a Quest to Live Happier

I confess I am one who always looks at the fresh tasty juice and thinks, YES! I want some of that - it is SO much better than the canned kind! However, I fail to look at the cost (to myself and others) of standing in front of the sink squeezing oranges. So it has been a life lesson for me to ask myself, What is the juice squeezed ratio here? Is it worth it to take the dream job, if that takes me away from my family and leaves my spouse basically a single parent? Am I looking at the whole situation here? Stories play an invaluable role in life. Our stories define who we are, they help us express ourselves, and they give us a common ground to understand each other. Juice Squeezed is a collection of stories that first appeared on Nancy Jane Smith's blog at Live-Happier.com. Stories from her own life and others that illustrate the struggle and joy we have in living a life with passion, purpose, balance, and awareness. These are the stories most meaningful in her quest to Live Happier. Hopefully in reading them they will add to your Live Happier Journey as well.
